Discussion and agreements:

- We began the discussion by stating we should all have the D.2 Requirements Document fully read at least 6 days in advance to the deliverables due date (02/23/18 @ 11:59PM)
- Joseph followed up by creating a big group chat with all our phone numbers so we can all bounce questions off each other whenever we would like. Which we thought was a good idea overall after the confusion that arose with setting up these weekly meetings and turning in deliverables
- We also discussed that we need to be following the exact wording as provided on the deliverable guidelines that way there is no confusion between what we are providing and what the grader believes we are providing.
- We discussed that our real target audience for this product is those who are lazy or those who don't have time to play the game, we could have a large age range when it comes to who is utilizing our software.
- Our current running value proposition for roBOTically efficient is, "No XP waste in any aspects of life". As by using our bot you can make the gains you would like in gain while also furthering your goals within the real world.
- Some goals we have for the upcoming weeks:
 - Figure out exactly what bots we are going to create
 - Figure out how we are going to create the bots
 - Get a basic bot going and test it (possibly)
